Professional Summary

I have been employed in the logistics, supervision, teaching and training in educational contexts since 1992. My primary responsibilities focus on the supervision of staff, logistics and supply chain aspects of project based contracts in international contexts. My primary responsibilities also include fabrication of equipment and resources where my specialties are in Resistant Materials and welding.

My secondary responsibilities focus on physical and mental health and safety particularly in rural and challenging international contexts. The last 15 years have focused on international education as a teaching administrator or consultant, particularly the Cambridge Suite, International Baccalaureate, US Common Core and US Advanced Placement curricula where I hold 40 qualifications in more than a dozen international curricula.

As an extension of my international employment, I run an informal private foundation called That's IT. This work began in 1995 and continues to this day.
